

The data from this map comes from the State of Utah, and is in harmony with the data found in the map entitled "Liquefaction-Potential Map For A Part of Utah County, Utah, Utah Geological Survey, Public Information Series 28, August 1994. The data from the 1994 map appears to have come or derived from the following report: Anderson, L.R., Keaton, J.R., and Bischoff J.E., 1994, Liquefaction potential map for Utah County, Utah: Utah Geological Survey Contract Report 94-3, 46 p., scale 1:48,000. The most recent GIS data from the State of Utah appears to have come from or is based on this 1994 report.

Provo Liquefaction Hazard Potential

- High
- Medium
- Low
- Very Low
- Water
- Provo City Limit

